

American University of Beirut

الجامعة الأمريكية في بيروت

Office of Institutional Research & Assessment

- Position Psychometrician, English Language Assessment Specialist
- Location Office of Institutional Research & Assessment, Provost Office,
American University of Beirut, Beirut, Lebanon
- Minimum Qualifications
- Doctorate/Masters in Educational Measurement or Applied Linguistics with subspecialty in English language testing;
 - Minimum of 5 years of work experience in test development, psychometrics, and teaching.
 - Demonstrated knowledge and competence in classical test theory, item response theory, and equating.
 - Effective communication and interpersonal skills.
- Essential Job Functions:
- Successful candidates are expected to develop English language proficiency tests for admission to university and for other purposes. More specifically, the position requires the following:
- Planning, directing, and supervising the development of tests in English as a foreign language for admission to college, including providing test specifications, production activities, and technical documentation.
 - Conducting reliability, validity, or comparability studies.
 - Applying knowledge of item statistics to evaluation of items and assembly of tests.
- Compensation: Salaries are commensurate with experience and background.
- The University: The American University of Beirut (AUB) is an independent, nonsectarian university, is one of the oldest and most prestigious universities in the Middle East. The university occupies a beautiful wooded campus overlooking the Mediterranean Sea, located in a central neighborhood in Beirut.

Application Procedure:

Applicants must submit the following: (a) a cover letter outlining the candidate's specific areas of expertise, evidence for that expertise; (b) curriculum vita; (c) names and contact information for three professional references.

Contact:

Dr. Karma El Hassan, Director
Office of Institutional Research & Assessment,
kelhasan@aub.edu.lb
Fax: 9611 365 019