

The Virginia Institute for Psychiatric and Behavioral Genetics (VIPBG), Department of Psychiatry, Virginia Commonwealth University, invites applications for a tenure-eligible faculty position at the Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor level. VIPBG is a highly collaborative interdisciplinary institute that brings together faculty from a diversity of backgrounds with complementary research programs aimed at understanding how genetic and environmental risk factors contribute to psychiatric outcomes and related behavioral outcomes (www.vipbg.vcu.edu). The successful candidate will be expected to establish their own research program, and be an engaged collaborator at the Institute. The applicant should have i) an MD or PhD or equivalent in genetics, psychology, biostatistics, epidemiology or a related field; ii) a successful track record of both publication and extramural research funding; and iii) an interest in areas complementary to current VIPBG expertise. In particular, applicants whose research is in the area of (1) clinical and behavioral phenotypes relevant to psychiatric or substance use disorders; (2) psychometrics; or (3) bioinformatics are especially encouraged to apply. The applicant should have demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU. For appointment at the Assistant Professor level, faculty member will be required to have an established research agenda and a clear potential for external funding, as appropriate, and potential for scholarship or creative expression to complement and expand existing expertise in the department. For appointment at the Associate/Full Professor level, faculty member will be required to have a well developed scholarly/research portfolio with evidence of multi-disciplinary applications and external funding appropriate to complement and expand existing expertise in the department. Joint appointments are possible with complementary departments. Generous three-year start-up package. To apply, please send a CV, a summary of research interests and future plans, and three references to: Danielle M. Dick, Ph.D., Psychiatry, PO Box 980126, Richmond, VA 23298-0126 or e-mail ddick@vcu.edu. Virginia Commonwealth University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Women, persons with disabilities, and minorities are encouraged to apply.