

THE DIVISION OF INTERDISCIPLINARY STUDIES AT LOMA LINDA UNIVERSITY INVITES APPLICATIONS FOR TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR (ASSOCIATE CONSIDERED)

Qualifications & Responsibilities: The applicant is expected to build a research program and publication track record, mentor doctoral students, consult with faculty on research and design related issues and have expertise in teaching statistics at the graduate level, including psychometrics. We are interested in candidates with a specialization in quantitative research and are open to any area of research, though translational research is preferred. Due to our partnerships across several health specialties on our campus, we offer the opportunity for applicants to develop a multidisciplinary research program. All applicants must hold a Ph.D. in a recognized behavioral health discipline. If the degree is in clinical psychology, it must be from an APA-accredited program (including an APA-accredited internship); for applicants from other behavioral health disciplines, they must also have received their degree from an accredited institution. Of note, any applicant must have the background/training, skills, experiences and desire that makes them an appropriate methods/statistics mentor for faculty and students from different behavioral health backgrounds. Rank determination and salary are commensurate with faculty policies and the wage scale for faculty within the School of Behavioral Health at Loma Linda University.

Loma Linda University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. Women and individuals from diverse backgrounds are particularly encouraged to apply. Applicants must be supportive of the LLU mission statement (llu.edu/central/mission), and preference will be given to members of the Seventh-day Adventist church. The position is pending budgetary approval.

Background: Loma Linda University is a nationally ranked, tier 2 research and private Christian health science university listed in The Chronicle of Higher Education's "Great Colleges to Work For." LLU is one of the main healthcare institutions in the Inland Empire in Southern California and the flagship of a system of hundreds of healthcare institutions worldwide. As a Seventh-day Adventist Health Sciences University, LLU offers over 100 programs for 4500 trainees in all aspects of healthcare. As we expand our doctoral programs, we are recruiting new faculty with a commitment to excellence in teaching, research, and mentoring, and who share in our aspiration to train exceptional clinical psychologists for the new health care environment.

The candidate would collaborate across the three departments of the School of Behavioral Health: the Department of Psychology which offers an APA-accredited Ph.D. and Psy.D. programs in clinical psychology <http://www.llu.edu/behavioral-health/psychology/index.page>, the Department of Social Work, which offers a MSW and a DSW and the Department of Counseling and Family Sciences which offers both masters and doctoral level degrees. The city of Loma Linda is America's only "Blue Zone" of longevity and is conveniently situated near mountains, beaches, downtown Los Angeles, Palm Springs, and San Diego.

Application: Applicants should submit a PDF file containing a formal letter of application (specifically addressing how you meet the qualifications and can fulfill the responsibilities described in this position announcement), a full curriculum vitae, 2 samples of research publications, and 3 letters of reference after the initial screening interview to: Susanne Montgomery PhD, Chair, Faculty Search Committee, smontgomery@llu.edu or, Loma Linda University, Associate Dean of Research and Chair, Division of Interdisciplinary Studies, LOMA LINDA UNIVERSITY | School of Behavioral Health, Griggs Hall, 224, 11065 Campus Street Loma Linda, CA 92350
Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.
